Event Information

- UNU Global Seminars are designed to enhance awareness among university students and young professionals about issues of global concern. In 2008, a series of seven sessions will be held in locations throughout Japan.
- In the midst of accelerated globalization, various actors including sovereign states, international organizations, civil society, the private sector, non-governmental organizations are forming a new global order. In the construction of such an order, the values of justice, peace and equality are providing guidelines for their activities and used to legitimize the efforts of their activities. Participants in the 2008 UNU Global Seminar – Shonan Session will take up the questions of what these public values are, and what we, as individuals and as members of civil society, can do to bring about the realization of these public values.
- The session will open on Monday afternoon (1 September) with keynote lectures by Anthony McGrew, Professor, University of Southampton, U.K., and Tatsuo Kunugi, Visiting Professor UNU-Institute for Advanced Studies, Japan. Media representatives are cordially invited to attend.
